Bariloche, host of the XXII Ski Patrol World Congress FIPS 2019.

We have the pleasure and honor of presenting ourselves before the international community of ski patrollers as the organizers of the XXII Ski Patrol World Congress FIPS 2019, that will take place between the 7th and 14th of September 2019 in Bariloche, Río Negro, Argentina.

From January 26th of this year, date on which the city was chosen as the next location for this important event, all the AADIDESS (Argentine Association of Ski Instructors, Snowboarders and Ski Patrollers) staff began to work so that we could give everyone participating on this congress the best stay, training and experience, in an exceptional natural environment.

San Carlos de Bariloche (commonly called Bariloche) is a city in the Patagonia Argentina, next to Los Andes Mountain Range, located on the shore of the Nahuel Huapi's lake and surrounded by mountains. Bariloche is known for its alpine-style architecture, and is the country's main winter destination, that is why thousands of tourists visit it every season. The city's most important ski resort is Cerro Catedral, where the activities and practices of the XXII Ski Patrol World Congress FIPS 2019 will take place.

All the information, the event's schedule, registration, flights and stays, as well as the reservation form, will be available soon.
